

Duplicating Yourself

When starting your business your overall goal is to build something that you can either grow and duplicate or to sell to someone else. If your goal is to duplicate yourself let's help you envision what that process will look like as you build it.

When your business has hit a certain high level of success what do you plan to do next? Write down a vision of what you see? (This can be part of your Vision Statement.) _____

How do you train your replacement while still owning the business? _____

How do you plan on becoming more hands-off so you can enjoy life outside of the business? _____

When you are hands-off what do you do with your time? _____
